

Road safety indicators and road safety performance indicators was the topic of the ERSCharter webinar held on June 29th. Wouter Van den Berghe, director of the knowledge department of the Belgian Road safety institute, explained how to choose, define and measure indicators at different hierarchical levels and how these indicators can be used to adjust and adapt road safety policy. During the second part of the webinar, Sofie Questier gave an insight into the road safety performance indicators used for the ISO 39001 at the BRSI. This last presentation was a good prelude to the next webinar that will handle the subject of work-related road safety.

If you wish to find out more about road safety indicators and road safety performance indicators, don't hesitate to download the recording of the webinar.

<https://attendee.gotowebinar.com/register/661753551438941955>